Speech and Workshop Topics

THE MILLENNIAL EDGE

If 911 was one of your biggest historic events, you are a millennial. Projected to make up 75% of the workforce by 2025, millennials, particularly how they'll lead not only themselves but influence others, are worth talking about. From relationship management and emotional IQ to cultivating a growth versus a goal mindset, this keynote will deliver five principles to discover your greatness and build better leaders.

#LEVEL-UP

You can talk some real talk, but until you walk the real walk (publicly and privately) you won't see change. "#Level-up" isn't just a cute hashtag, but a loaded word backed with massive action that inevitably will deliver RESULTS. Learn how to excuse-proof your life, establish your "dailies" (secret sauce of power habits) and cultivate an abnormally exceptional life, one moment at a time.

INTEGRITY MOMENTUM

When life hits, it hits, HARD. Transition, loss, dynamic work environments, moves, disappointment, you name it, they're tricky to navigate and can send even the most stable person into future-tripping and expectation hangovers. What if there were keys that could be your anchor through these seasons? You've got the experiential education, now get ready to learn five keys to thrive, not just survive when life happens.

BUSINESS IDENTITY

Who are you as an entrepreneur and service contractor? What does your brand stand for, and what do you hope to accomplish through your service business? When companies operate without a business identity, they don't make money, and business owners find themselves working all the time and never making any progress. In this presentation, Juliana talks about her own experience developing a business identity, and explains why it's key to success and how others can create their own.

HOW TO UNDERSTAND IT'S NOT A ONE-SIZE-FITS-ALL FORMULA

No two businesses are alike, and neither are any two managers or employees. Juliana has learned, through trial and error, that effective service business management requires identifying the strengths of each person, and of the team as a whole. She will show audience members how to put policies in place to help grow the company, while allowing each person's strengths to shine through – and set the company apart from the competition.

HOW TO POSITION YOUR COMPANY IN THE MARKET TODAY

Where does your company belong in its industry? Taking your service business to another level, or even maintaining its current level, requires you to identify the position you'd like to have in your market. In this presentation, Juliana will discuss how identifying your target audience, finding a unique selling proposition, and establishing an effective marketing strategy can help position your company exactly where you want in the market.
